

THE GRIDIRON GAZETTE

Because someone needs to report on your team's latest disaster.

For those times when everyone wants to know your score.

WEEK 4 RECAP

GAME RECAPS

ANNIE1235 SLAYY VS. AVONDALE WELDERS

– ANNIE1235 SLAYY – 110.58

vs.

– AVONDALE WELDERS – 125.02

In a showdown that felt more like a “bring your kid to work day” than an NFL matchup, the Annie1235 slayy faced off against the Avondale Welders, who rolled through Week 4 like a hot knife through butter. The final score—110.58 to 125.02—was as shocking as finding out your favorite actor has a secret twin. Puka Nacua lit up the field for the Welders, dropping a jaw-dropping 30.50 points, proving he’s not just a fantasy darling 2025 Gridiron Gazette (a creation of Bluedobie Developing).

Brought to you this week by Lyssie D's Sweets and Treats

THE GRIDIRON GAZETTE

Because someone needs to report on your team's latest disaster.

but a full-blown superstar. Meanwhile, Jordan Love had himself a solid outing for the slayy, tossing in 26.28 points, but it wasn't enough to keep his squad from looking like they were auditioning for a reality show about epic fails.

Now, let's address the decision-making that would make even a toddler with a crayon look strategic. The slayy clearly had their heads in the clouds, failing to capitalize on some juicy matchups, while the Welders strutted out a lineup that had more synergy than a boy band reunion tour. Those sustained drives that broke it open for the Welders? Let's just say they were like the plot twist in a rom-com—unexpected, but totally welcome.

As we look ahead, Annie1235 needs to regroup and perhaps rethink their strategy; a little lineup TLC wouldn't hurt. Maybe check out the waiver wire and grab someone who can perform like they know which end of the football to hold. Your fantasy team should not be a circus act, folks!

—Sabre, your hilariously snarky 4-legged Gridiron Gazette reporter 🐾

Stats Spotlight

Top Scorer (Home):	Jordan Love (26.28)
Top Scorer (Away):	Puka Nacua (30.50)
Biggest Bust:	Biggest Bust: Annie1235 slayy's stars picked the wrong Sunday to ghost.
Key Play:	Third-quarter surge by Avondale Welders swung momentum for good.
Defense Note:	Pressure on key drives forced mistakes at crucial moments.

2025 Gridiron Gazette (a creation of Bluedobie Developing).

Brought to you this week by Lyssie D's Sweets and Treats

THE GRIDIRON GAZETTE

Because someone needs to report on your team's latest disaster.

Kansas City Pumas vs. Nana's Hawks

— KANSAS CITY PUMAS – 125.66

vs.

— NANA'S HAWKS – 149.24

This wasn't just a game—it was a masterclass in how to deliver a beatdown with a side of fantasy points. The Kansas City Pumas learned the hard way that Nana's Hawks brought more than just grandma's famous cookies; they came armed with Ashton Jeanty, who was the clear star of the evening, racking up a jaw-dropping 35.50 points. Meanwhile, the Pumas were left wondering if their lineup was built from leftover parts from a 1990s yard sale.

Josh Jacobs tried to channel his inner superhero with 29.70 points, but when your QB's like a deer caught in the headlights, those rushing yards can feel more like a slow crawl. The Pumas' performance was about as thrilling as a Tuesday night rerun of a show no one watched; they scored fewer points than a bye week player! And let's not forget about those decision-making skills—playing the wrong matchups here was like trying to bake a soufflé with a brick.

The Hawks, on the other hand, had their offense flowing smoother than a well-rehearsed TikTok dance. Their sustained drives broke it open, leaving the Pumas to rethink their entire strategy while staring wistfully at the scoreboard like a kid who just got their candy stolen.

So, if you're a Pumas fan, buckle up. It's time for some serious lineup changes and a chat about who's got to go, because right now, your roster's about as useful as a screen door on a submarine.

2025 Gridiron Gazette (a creation of Bluedobie Developing).

Brought to you this week by Lyssie D's Sweets and Treats

THE GRIDIRON GAZETTE

Because someone needs to report on your team's latest disaster.

—Sabre, your hilariously snarky 4-legged Gridiron Gazette reporter 🐾

Stats Spotlight

Top Scorer (Home):	Josh Jacobs (29.70)
Top Scorer (Away):	Ashton Jeanty (35.50)
Biggest Bust:	Biggest Bust: Kansas City Pumas called in sick—left their A-game in the group chat.
Key Play:	Nana's Hawks's offense hummed all day—scoring in every phase.
Defense Note:	Bend-don't-break defense held when it mattered most.

2025 Gridiron Gazette (a creation of Bluedobie Developing).
Brought to you this week by Lyssie D's Sweets and Treats

THE GRIDIRON GAZETTE

Because someone needs to report on your team's latest disaster.

Under the InfluentZ vs. The Champ Big Daddy

— UNDER THE INFLUWENTZ- 99.80

vs.

— THE CHAMP BIG DADDY- 115.10

This wasn't just a game; it was a high-stakes showdown between an aspiring contender and a team that clearly forgot to set their alarm. Under the InfluentZ limped through Week 4 with a performance so lackluster it made a sloth look like Usain Bolt, finishing at 99.80 points. Meanwhile, The Champ Big Daddy strutted off with a comfortable 115.10, looking like they just hit the jackpot at a slot machine while their opponents were still fumbling for spare change.

Let's talk about the stars of the night. For the home team, James Cook put on a valiant effort, racking up 22 points like he was trying to carry the whole squad on his back. But honestly, it's hard to win when your supporting cast is as useful as a screen door on a submarine. The real standout, however, was Omarion Hampton from The Champ Big Daddy, who blasted through defenses for 28 points, leaving the Under the InfluentZ players wondering if they'd accidentally entered a karaoke bar instead of a football field.

We could dissect poor lineup decisions all day, but let's just say starting players who scored fewer points than a bye week player is a bold strategy—one that needs to be rethought, stat. If Under the InfluentZ wants to salvage their season, they might want to check their roster's pulse or, you know, consult a fortune teller because this magic act isn't working.

The group chat is already buzzing with "what the heck just happened?" memes. Buckle up, folks; it's going to be a long week.

2025 Gridiron Gazette (a creation of Bluedobie Developing).

Brought to you this week by Lyssie D's Sweets and Treats

THE GRIDIRON GAZETTE

Because someone needs to report on your team's latest disaster.

—Sabre, your hilariously snarky 4-legged Gridiron Gazette reporter 🐾

Stats Spotlight

Top Scorer (Home):	James Cook (22.00)
Top Scorer (Away):	Omarion Hampton (28.00)
Biggest Bust:	Biggest Bust: Lineup choices for Under the InflUWENTZ aged like milk in July.
Key Play:	Key sequence: The Champ Big Daddy answered every Under the InflUWENTZ score with one of their own.
Defense Note:	Turnover battle and field position controlled the flow.

2025 Gridiron Gazette (a creation of Bluedobie Developing).
Brought to you this week by Lyssie D's Sweets and Treats

THE GRIDIRON GAZETTE

Because someone needs to report on your team's latest disaster.

Phoenix Blues vs. Jimmy Birds

— PHOENIX BLUES- 103.50

vs.

— JIMMY BIRDS- 117.46

This wasn't just a game; it was a one-way ticket to the land of "What Were They Thinking?" The Phoenix Blues got schooled by the Jimmy Birds, who flew high on a 117.46 to 103.50 scoreline. It was like watching a toddler try to play chess against a grandmaster—entertaining, but the outcome was never in question.

Patrick Mahomes tried to put the Blues on his back, racking up a solid 27.30 points. But let's be real: one player can't carry a team that left the rest of their lineup looking as useful as a screen door on a submarine. What was the thought process here? Starting players who barely showed up was about as effective as trying to charge your phone with a potato. No shade on the effort, but those numbers couldn't compete with DK Metcalf's 23.10 points, who made it look like he was playing against a bunch of traffic cones.

And speaking of poor decisions, did anyone check the Blues' bench? Those guys could've scored more points just by showing up in the chat and dropping a meme. This loss might just send the Blues back to the drawing board—if they can find their pencils after this debacle.

Look, we've all made bad calls, but this one felt like a bad Tinder date where both parties ghosted after the appetizer. Time to hit the waiver wire, folks, because this lineup needs a makeover faster than you can say "fantasy bust."

2025 Gridiron Gazette (a creation of Bluedobie Developing).

Brought to you this week by Lyssie D's Sweets and Treats

THE GRIDIRON GAZETTE

Because someone needs to report on your team's latest disaster.

—Sabre, your hilariously snarky 4-legged Gridiron Gazette reporter 🐾

Stats Spotlight

Top Scorer (Home):	Patrick Mahomes (27.30)
Top Scorer (Away):	DK Metcalf (23.10)
Biggest Bust:	Biggest Bust: Phoenix Blues's bench outscored their starters—film room's gonna be awkward.
Key Play:	Jimmy Birds controlled the tempo—steady drives broke Phoenix Blues's spirit.
Defense Note:	Goal-line stand shifted momentum in the deciding quarter.

2025 Gridiron Gazette (a creation of Bluedobie Developing).
Brought to you this week by Lyssie D's Sweets and Treats

THE GRIDIRON GAZETTE

Because someone needs to report on your team's latest disaster.

🏈 THE 💀 REBELS 🏈 vs. DEM BOY'S! 🏆🏆🏆🏆

— 🏈 THE 💀 REBELS 🏈 — 139.28

vs.

— DEM BOY'S! 🏆🏆🏆🏆 — 112.94

If you thought the showdown between the 🏈 THE 💀 REBELS 🏈 and DEM BOY'S! 🏆🏆🏆🏆 would be an epic clash, think again. It was more like a toddler's birthday party: one side brought cake and ice cream while the other forgot the balloons and just stared at their phones. The Rebels stomped their way to a 139.28 to 112.94 victory, leaving Dem Boy's with less hope than a contestant on a reality dating show.

Let's talk about Bijan Robinson, who was so good, he could've turned the game into a one-man show. Scoring 27.10 points, he practically had a "Dancing with the Stars" performance—twirls, spins, and enough finesse to leave the defense looking like it had just tried to take a selfie in a funhouse mirror. Meanwhile, George Pickens from Dem Boy's did what he could, racking up 30.40 points like a kid raking in Halloween candy. But honestly, it felt like he was playing the role of the friend who shows up late to the party with a single cupcake while everyone else is already indulging.

Look, we've all made bad calls—like putting that one friend in charge of the playlist. But if Dem Boy's thinks they can just send out a lineup with more question marks than a mystery novel, it's time for a reality check. They need to ditch some underperformers faster than a contestant on a cooking show after burning water.

Time to strategize, or we might have a real-life "Survivor" situation on our hands.

2025 Gridiron Gazette (a creation of Bluedobie Developing).

Brought to you this week by Lyssie D's Sweets and Treats

THE GRIDIRON GAZETTE

Because someone needs to report on your team's latest disaster.

—Sabre, your hilariously snarky 4-legged Gridiron Gazette reporter 🐾

Stats Spotlight

Top Scorer (Home):	Bijan Robinson (27.10)
Top Scorer (Away):	George Pickens (30.40)
Biggest Bust:	Biggest Bust: DEM BOY'S! 🏆🏆🏆 brought receipts but forgot the gameplan.
Key Play:	Dominant first half by 🏆THE 🦴 REBELS🏆 set the tone early.
Defense Note:	Third-down stops and red-zone clamps shaped the outcome.

2025 Gridiron Gazette (a creation of Bluedobie Developing).
Brought to you this week by Lyssie D's Sweets and Treats

THE GRIDIRON GAZETTE

Because someone needs to report on your team's latest disaster.

Weekly Awards: The Ridiculous Roundup

Cupcake Award (Lowest Score):

Under the InfluentZ — 99.80 points

Kitty Award (Largest Gap Loss):

DEM BOY'S! 🏆🏆🏆🏆 — lost to 🏈 THE 💀 REBELS 🏈 by 26.34 points

Top Score:

Nana's Hawks — 149.24 points

- See everyone Thursday!

2025 Gridiron Gazette (a creation of Bluedobie Developing).

Brought to you this week by Lyssie D's Sweets and Treats